The Department of Health, in collaboration with the University of Galway, are looking to consult with SMEs to inform the expansion of the Healthy Workplace Framework website.

As an SME, your insights and recommendations will ensure that the website provides everything you need to become a Healthy Workplace, and that the resources offered are helpful, valuable, usable, and easy to find.

WHY SME'S?

The evidence is clear that Healthy Workplaces are good for employees, business and the wider community, but the reality is that it is challenging for SMEs to embark on their Healthy Workplace journey, considering their own unique circumstances and constraints.

The Healthy Workplace website aims to be a vital resource to aid organisations, and particularly SMEs, in ensuring their workplace is supportive and promotes the health of their employees.

THE PROCESS

Each consultation will be no longer than 90 minutes with approximately 10 participants. The format will be a roundtable discussion where all participants can share their ideas and brainstorm together. A researcher from the University of Galway will facilitate the discussion using a semi-structured guide of questions that aim to capture your views on the navigability and usefulness of the website and how we can ensure it responds to your unique needs in bringing wellness to your organisation.
